DELTA UPSILON BALL.

A VERY SUCCESSFUL DANCE IN THE NEW HOUSTON HALL.

Deputations Were Present from Lafayette, Rutgers, Swarthmore and Lehigh—First Large Fraternity Dance in Seven Years.

The auditorium of the Houston Club of the University of Pennsylvania was last evening the scene of the Delta Upsilon fraternity ball, the first one to be given in the new student club house. This was also the first large fraternity ball given for seven years, although smaller dances have been given by the other fraternities at their chapter houses. This was not a single chapter dance, however, for Lafayette, Rutgers, Swarthmore and Lehigh Universities were also represented, each sending deputations to this ball, which really marks the reorganization of the local chapter.

All were not college men, for here and there, scattered around among the crowd, older men could be seen, those who had experienced the joys of fraternity life, and were now classed as members of the large society of alumni.

The whole of the second floor of the club was given up to the dancers and a prettier sight is seldom seen than the light costumes of the ladies, rendered even brighter in contrast with the old oak finish of the hall. The athletic trophy room, leading out of the hall, was prettily arranged for 10-4-10-4, and at one side stood the huge punch bowl, which proved an attraction after each dance. The dancing hall itself had not been slighted by the decorators, but seemed to be a bit of tropical scenery transported hither for the occasion. The stage at one end was banked with palms and rare flowers, and from behind came the strains of music, rendered under Prof. Edward Beale's direction.

In the centre of the stage rested the pride of all Delta Upsilon's, their emblem, and this was prettily surrounded with flowers.

At the other end of the hall was the banquet room, in which refreshments were served. Here the table was again very suitably decorated, a soft light being cast upon the scene by four banquet lamps, which were placed on different parts of the large table, and gave the whole a very 'chic' effect. Here all congregated after the tenth dance to enjoy the delicious viands.

A two-step, written for the occasion by Harry L. Shafer, was played for the second dance, and received an ovation. It is entitled the 'Delta Upsilon Two-step,' and deserved the enthusiastic encore with which it was received.

Guests began to arrive about 10 o'clock, when the music commenced, and from that time until after 2 o'clock did the 'Varsity men and their fair partners continue the dance. Indeed, it was with great reluctance that they ceased at all, so successful was the entire affair.

Ladies present were the Misses Broomall, Stolp, Thomas, Christy, Orbison, Gilliam, Eaves, McDowell, Lamb, Dickson, Gilpin, Fulton, Cox, Coates, Hinckley, Mary Stewart, Martha Stewart, Margaret Stewart, Messrs. O. Moore, J. E. Way, H. C. Johnson, M. P. Sullivan, Wade, Conway, Bloom, Hoels, Schafer, Stewart, Hinckley, Wight and others.

The patronesses were Mrs. Henry C. Gibbons, Mrs. John Quincy Adams, Mrs. Albert Hancock, Mrs. John C. Foulkrod, Mrs. Henry Ashton Little, Mrs. Charles S. Hirst, Mrs. Robert H. Hinckley, Mrs. George M. C. Miller and Mrs. William F. Johnston.

The committee in charge, whose untiring labor accomplished such a successful result, was comprised of Charles Martinus Bumstead, chairman; Witten Booth Russ, William Thomas Stewart, Edgar Selig Bloom, John Chambers Hinckley, Theodore Lorraine Haseltine, Frank Russ Hancock.

A FRATERNITY DANCE.

The Delta Upsilon of the University Gives a Ball at Houston Hall.

The Pennsylvania chapters of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity at Swarthmore, Lafayette, Lehigh, Rutgers and Pennsylvania, gave a ball last night at the Houston Hall. It was the first fraternity affair to be given in the handsome clubhouse, and was attended by many society people. The dancing rooms were tastefully decorated with potted plants, fraternity emblems and the University colors.

One of the features of the dance programme was an original march, called the 'Delta Upsilon Two-step,' composed by Harry Lee Shafer, '94 College.

The patronesses were Mrs. Henry C. Gibbons, Mrs. Albert Hancock, Mrs. Henry Ashton Little, Mrs. Robert H. Hinckley, Mrs. John Quincy Adams, Mrs. John C. Foulkrod, Mrs. Charles S. Hirst, Mrs. George M. C. Miller, and Mrs. William F. Johnston. The local committee having charge of the dance consisted of Charles M. Bumstead, chairman; Edgar S. Bloom, William T. Stewart, Frank Hancock, John C. Hinckley, Witten B. Russ and T. Lorraine Haseltine.

Among those present were Miss Broomall, Miss Thomas, Miss Orbison, Miss Cox, Miss Hinckley, Miss Coates, Miss Eaves, Miss Stolp, of Aurora, Ill.; Miss Gilliam, Miss McDowell, Miss Dickson, Miss Gilpin, Miss Lamb, Miss Christy, Miss Fulton, Misses Mary, Margaret and Martha Stewart, Mr. Wade, Mr. Wight, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Castle, Mr. Craefelt, Mr. John M. Sterrett, Mr. Way, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Shafer, Mr. Hoels, Mr. Conley, Mr. Swatta, Mr. Thorne, Dr. John Quincy Adams, Professor Henry C. Gibbons and Mr. Henry Ashton Little.

AN UNEXPECTED AUDIENCE.

A Swarthmore College Graduate Mistaken for an Insane Man.

Engineer Harry G. Dean, of the Immigrant Train of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, had a rather amusing experience a few days ago. His train had been stationed for a couple of hours near Swarthmore, and Engineer Dean took a walk up through a woods near by. He had gone but a short distance when he was somewhat startled to hear what seemed to be the plaintive cries of a human being in distress. He hastened in the direction from whence the strange voice emanated, and finally beheld a young man standing on a stump delivering an oration to the trees. Thinking the fellow insane, Engineer Dean summoned several of the train hands, but when they put in an appearance the orator brought his remarks to a sudden termination and jumped down from his perch. The visitors requested him to continue, but he declined to do so, at the same time extending to them an invitation to attend the commencement exercises at Swarthmore College, when their wishes might be gratified. He was a member of the Senior Class and had sought a secluded spot in the woods to practice his part. Wait H.C.P.

To-night there will be a meeting of all interested in Swarthmore College, for the purpose of acquainting them with the present position, standing and needs of the college. The meeting will be addressed by Dr. Degarmo, Ely Powell Bond, Ex-President Dr. Macmill, Superintendent William J. Hall, H. C. Johnson, '94, William C. Spaul, Isaac H. Clothier and others.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT SWARTHMORE COLLEGE.

Exercises by the Graduates—Degrees conferred—Addresses by Joseph Wharton and President De Garmo.

[SPECIAL TO THE PUBLIC LEDGER.] SWARTHMORE, June 9.—The twenty-fourth annual commencement of Swarthmore College was held this morning at the institution, the attendance being very large, notwithstanding the threatening weather. The lery and rear wall of College Hall were rated with festoons of garnet cloth, the of the college. On the wall in the rear of platform, in letters of white immortelles interspersed with green leaves, was the motto, "Gnome Peirata Pantos Eas" ("Understanding Holds All Issues.")

President Charles De Garmo was in chair, and read the Scriptures. After a minutes of silence, an oration on "Material Progress," was delivered by son Zimri Wilson. He said the Seven V of the World were created by the degraded, enslaved nature. Long has been accomplishing her marvellous feat. That mysterious force, harnessed by science, far outstrips Mercury of old. The moves on in the cycles of human advancement. We are compelled to deal with terial forces around us. Man has but vance and take position. We are entering the period when mind will conquer nature. Man has reached but the threshold of achievements.

"Education and Friends" was the subject of the essay of Mary Stone McDowell. said it was no matter to what denomination a man belongs, so long as he lives a right pure and noble life. True education must of particular importance to friends. As us have to solve difficult problems in everyday lives; in order to solve them must have more knowledge. The study few best books is often influential in making a man broad-minded.

Isaac Hallowell Clothier, Jr., delivered an oration on "The Duty of the College Man to the World." Man, said he, is brought into this world with a free will. He has freedom from individualism to altruism. The work of mankind is the preparation of resting place after life's struggles have ended. A man should not have the idea that the world owes him a living. It reaches the haven of success if he battles his own personal effort. Life's battle presents a race—some win, some lose, honor rests on all who have honestly performed their duty. The college man has done his duty will have his mind filled with lofty ideals. If a man's heart be right it will follow, as the night does the day, to his works will be right.

An oration on "The Influence of Civilization" was delivered by Ely Gunton. Civilization, said he, means more than national prosperity; it means the development of high ideals. The nineteenth century has been but a preparation for the twentieth, into which we are about to enter. The influences of city life are temporary, remediable. The movement for clean, clear streets has reached a momentum nothing can stop. By an improvement in the general social features, individual lives may be benefited. Infection, disease and high death rate must succumb to purification. Cities, with all their shortcomings, always have led, and it is to be hoped they will lead the way to civilization.

President De Garmo's Address.

Your work is done, and it would seem that nothing more is to be said. To-day we enter into new relations of life. The thought is, what is left of you and your work when you are gone? We go on and on and on forever; there is nothing left but change. We, however, do not believe man is a mere whirlwind. There are two things important—the power to do and the character to direct that power right. We expect you to-morrow to be able to act, and to act aright. We believe that you have been storing up great reservoirs of force. We hope we graduate not mere scientists and engineers, but men and women. Your alma mater will always have for you a word of good cheer.

President De Garmo's address brought the exercises to a close.

Among those who were present were: Isaac H. Clothier, James V. Watson, Daniel Underhill, of New York; Prof. Gunton and Mrs. Sarah E. Gardner, both of the School of Economics, New York; Edmund Webster, Howard M. Jenkins, Newbold N. Trotter and the Rev. Fletcher Clark. J. E. D.

CLASS DAY AT SWARTHMORE.

[SPECIAL TO THE PUBLIC LEDGER.] SWARTHMORE, June 8.—The Class Day exercises were held in Assembly Hall this afternoon, beginning at 2.30. The hall was thronged with visiting friends of the graduating class, while the different classes occupied the gallery. It is the custom of the allied class to do the decorating, and this '95 did with great credit.

The stage was artistically adorned with flowers and potted plants, and the walls were hung with laurel and college colors. Over the stage was an arch bearing the class motto in Greek letters, "Understanding Holds All Issues."

The exercises were opened by a double quartette of ladies and gentlemen from the class. The programme was then as follows: President's address, Philip S. Knauer; history, Caroline Hayes Chambers; prophecy, Nellie Elizabeth Bishop; poem, Mary Cooper McAllister; presentations, Charles Gordon Hodge; music, Class Glee Club.

The meeting then adjourned from the hall to the campus and the Day exercises, which were very impressive, were given around the class stone. The oration was delivered by Howard Cooper Johnson.

Following this, the President of the graduating class presented the spade to '95, on behalf of which class it was received by Robert Fyie, their President.

The exercises closed with the Ivy poem, written and read by Lauretta Thomas Smedley.

The Haverford-Swarthmore Game.

To the Sporting Editor of "The Press"—I was glad to notice in the issue of this morning's "Press" that Swarthmore's captain claimed his rights in the recent foot ball game with Haverford. I think it is ridiculous for Haverford to announce in the newspapers that she won the game. Any fair-minded judge of foot ball knows that such was not the case. It was clearly evident that Swarthmore outplayed her opponents at almost every point. Swarthmore's goal was never threatened after the first twenty minutes of play, and her game was always aggressive, forcing the ball through Haverford's territory. A game is never won until it is finished. This game was not finished. Ten minutes remained when the referee stopped the game on account of darkness. The point Swarthmore brings up in regard to the power of that referee to call the game off on account of darkness is one that will bear argument. Circumstances after cases. If both sides agree to stop the referee can call the game off, of course. But when only one side agrees to stop, the circumstances should be considered. In this instance I think the game should have been played out to the end, because Swarthmore did not agree to stop, and because Haverford continually delayed the latter part of the game by "take" injuries when they saw the cond of recent happenings over their shoulders. Haverford cannot claim a victory, nor Swarthmore a draw. The only fair result to be announced is: Score, Haverford 8, Swarthmore 6 (game unplayed). This result is most unsatisfactory, and, nevertheless, the only one possible. An Interest Witness of the Game. Philadelphia, Nov. 15, 1897.

SWARTHMORE'S FIRST GAME.

Defeats an Eleven Composed of Alumni by a Score of 12 to 0.

Special Telegram to THE TIMES. The Swarthmore team defeated a strong team of Alumni players yesterday by a score of 12 to 0 in one fifteen minute half. In the first half the playing was all by a centre of the field, until two minutes before the close, when O. Jackson made a 25-yard run for a touchdown. Wilson failed to kick goal. The second touchdown was made by J. Verlienden after securing the ball in a punt by Hodge. The third touchdown was made by steady gains from the centre of the field, Farquhar carrying the ball most of the time. His playing was excellent throughout. The line-up was as follows:

Alumni.	Right half-back.	Reginald Palmer.
Johnson.	Right tackle.	Alfred Thomas.
Thomas.	Right guard.	Harry Shell.
Shell.	Centre.	Boyd Fouse.
Jackson.	Quarter-back.	Wilson.
Wilson.	Full-back.	Charles Hodge.
Hodge.	Full-back.	Brown.

Touchdowns—Varsity, 3. Referee—Wad Clothier. Umpire—E. D. Hubbard. Time half—15, 20.

Classmates

In June of this year Mrs. Bond will have completed the tenth year of a conspicuously devoted and valuable service in the interests of Swarthmore College, and to several of our recent Alumni the idea of some appropriate testimonial has presented itself. A committee of ten, named below, has been organized with the purpose of furthering this object, and in a meeting held April 2d, in Philadelphia, it decided to ask each Alumnus from '87 to '96 inclusive for the contribution of a sum between 50c. and $2.00. It is to be hoped that the total amount subscribed will permit of a dignified memorial, as becoming the sentiments which it will stand for; and this memorial, it is proposed, shall be presented to the College during Commencement week, so the committee must ask for prompt responses and desires that remittances should all be in before May 1st. Any suggestion accompanying an amount will be thoughtfully considered.

Dear friends:

The announcement from your Secretary has just reached me, that you have secured for our corridors the beautiful pictures we have so much desired.

That you should associate my name with them, as an expression of your confidence in the aim of my work in the College fills me with gratitude that I cannot express. To have this assurance of co-operation from ten graduating classes and their associates - how can anything seem disheartening to me in the future! If only my clearness of vision might match my gratitude! This is my prayer hour by hour.

It is a closer tie than friendship that binds my heart to yours. The mother's yearning sympathy went out to you when you were under the College roof; and still goes out to you along the world's highways, rejoicing in all your successes, and mourning when sorrow is your portion.

With gratitude that finds no adequate words, and with mother-love,

Yours,

(Signed) Elizabeth Powell Bond.

25TH ANNIVERSARY.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT SWARTHMORE COLLEGE.

Large Attendance of Former Graduates and Friends—Addresses by Joseph Wharton and Others—Degrees Conferred.

The twenty-fifth annual commencement of Swarthmore College, which was held yesterday morning, drew a large gathering of alumni and friends of the Quaker college to celebrate the completion of the first twenty-five years of its existence.

Seated on the stage in the hall on the second floor of the main building were members of the Board of Managers, the Faculty and graduating class.

The opening address was made by Joseph Wharton, President of the Board of Managers, who reverted to the foundation of the college, and dwelt upon the desire of the founders to establish a place of learning where young friends and others might receive a sound education while surrounded by guarded care and ennobling influences. In 1881 the main building was destroyed by fire, but so strong was the faith in Swarthmore among its supporters and patrons that funds were speedily subscribed, and, with a new and finer equipment, the work went on with fresh vigor and earnestness. For many years a preparatory school was maintained, but it was finally given up, leaving only the strictly college courses. Scientific and engineering departments, an astronomical observatory, gymnastics and other additions were made from time to time.

Joseph Wharton's Tribute.

President Wharton paid a warm tribute to the unceasing efforts of the founders of the college, to the Board of Managers who have since watched over its interests, to its first and second Presidents, Edward Parrish and Edward H. Magill, and to its present executive and Faculty.

In closing, President Wharton said:

"It is well that a people should continue to show to the world that piety and rectitude and spiritual growth can exist without priests or creeds, that luxurious living is not necessary to happiness, nor gulf to reasonable prosperity in business, that high intelligence is compatible with simplicity and inexpensiveness, that love and unity are practicable amid the clash and contention of modern life."

The Oration.

Frank G. Blair, representing the Graduating Class, delivered the oration, his subject being "The Unity of Truth." He endeavored to show how the apparent differences between the working forces in the various fields of human knowledge had arisen and how a deeper and wider truth was revealing the universal harmonic that underlies the entire realm of truth.

"Truth," he said, in part, "is never at variance with herself. Her lines are parallel, her movements harmonious. Conflict and tragedy occur where the lines of incomplete and partial truth cross each other. Every battle field, every torturing stake, every martyr's grave marks the spot where these half truths have met each other. And the effort to straighten out these conflicting lines of error, to make them run parallel, to show the unity of truth, constitutes the background of human history."

The other class orators chosen in addition to Mr. Blair, but who were excused from speaking, were Sarah Bancroft, Laura C. Miller, Herbert L. Noxon, Edwood C. Parry and Robert Pyle.

The Early Days.

"The Early Days" was the theme of addresses by John D. Hicks, representing the first Board of Managers, and Dr. Edward H. Magill, ex-President of the college, both of whom were received with an enthusiastic greeting.

Mr. Hicks could look back over nearly a third of a century of Swarthmore's existence, to the inception and growth of the idea of the foundation of the college, and his appearance and address at the celebration received additional interest from the fact that it was he who made the opening address when the college was inaugurated in 1880.

He recounted the plans of Benjamin Hallowell, as far back as 1832, when with the valuable co-operation of Martha E. Tyson, he founded the Friends' Educational Association, which later grew into the corporation of Swarthmore College. The natural beauty of the site, he said, had appealed strongly to the building committee, they holding it no small thing that the Quaker youth should walk the paths of culture amid the inspiring surroundings of stately woods and fair meadows.

"If our students," said he, "besides their literary attainments, have left these walls blessing the memory of their happy days of college life, if they have been aided or strengthened in character building that makes for righteousness, we have not built in vain."

Dr. Edward H. Magill's Address.

Dr. Magill, the next speaker, gave personal reminiscences of the founders of the college, with whose labors he was very familiar, having been connected with the college from the time of its opening in 1869. He dwelt especially upon the valuable aid rendered the college by Samuel Willets, the first President of the Board of Managers, and the gratitude which, he said, all must feel toward Edward Parrish, the first President of the college, for his zealous labors in the cause of the higher education. In his brief ten minutes address he succeeded in recalling the names of most of the families who have been especially instrumental in establishing and placing upon a firm foundation the largest college of the country under care of the Religious Society of Friends. He named together three Friends who were not only deeply interested in the college in its early history, but with whom the idea of establishing the college was originated—Benjamin Hallowell and Martha Tyson, of Baltimore, and Rachel T. Jackson, of Philadelphia. He also named four Friends whose faces were familiar for many years in the gallery of the yearly meetings, and who were full of interest for the spiritual welfare of the students and for the advancement of the Religious Society of Friends through Swarthmore's work—William Dorsey, Dillwyn Parrish, George Truman and Clement Biddle.

In conclusion, he said: "But, among those who aided most earnestly and efficiently by their labors, their contributions, their sacrifices and their prayers, to make their beloved college all that its earliest originators and founders dared to hope, time would fail me to name the Biddles, the Medvyns, the Hoopeses, the Longstreets, the Stephenses, the Thorns, the Haydocks, the Hoppers, the Whartons, the Ferrises, the Taylors, the Worths, the Underhills and the Foulkes, one of the last named, Thomas Foulke, having faithfully served the college as its genial and efficient Superintendent for many years."

Swarthmore's Women Graduates.

After John Russell Hayes, of the Class of '88, had read an ode, entitled "Swarthmore," Mr. A. Kemp Hoadley, A. M., '79, Professor of the German Language and Literature, spoke, as the representative of the alumnae of the college, on "The Moral and Spiritual Influence of College Life." She referred briefly to the character of the alumnae and their love for their alma mater. Seventy-nine per cent. of Swarthmore's women graduates, she said, were teachers or mothers, and they were almost all looking forward to entrusting their children to the own youth. In the eyes of the alumnae, of greater importance than scholarship and physical development was right moral and spiritual influence. Mentioning several features of college life that were well calculated to develop the moral strength of the student, she emphasized particularly the fact that by living, in common with many of his fellows, a life of happy industry and democratic equality, the student discovered for himself, by actual experiment, the supreme value of social solidarity.

"The college," she said, "does not give lectures on faith, hope and charity. But the small college, like Swarthmore, for instance, arranges a life based on faith—that what is seen in righteousness is reaped in joy; based on hope of the gradual unfolding of the life of the spirit that shall bring to pass the ultimate putting away of childishness; based on love of whatsoever things are lovely, pure, of good repute, and then she invites the student to live this life, to taste and see, to ascertain for himself the exact worth of four years of regular industry, aided by instructions imposed for the welfare of the whole as well as of the individual; four years of immediate reward for honest work, of inevitable condemnation of idleness; four years of true democracy, in which each is a component part of a great whole and attains enviable distinction in the social organism in so far as he serves the general good. And the student does, by actual experiment—if he enters at all into the true spirit of the collegiate body—ascertain whether a life organized in accordance with the principles of faith, hope and charity be a good thing or no.

"And to my mind the college teaches a greater lesson."

Dr. G. Stanley Hall, President of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., was next introduced, and made an address on "Euthusiasm."

WHY LAFAYETTE WITHDREW.

Captain Clarke Gives the Reasons for Not Competing at Swarthmore.

Easton, Pa., May 22 (Special).—Lafayette withdrew her team to-day from the State Intercollegiate games at Swarthmore, because of the refusal of that college to abide by the ruling of the Executive Committee of the association, and because of the gross insults of their manager, M. Vishniakki, to Lafayette's representatives. The facts in the affair are these: On May 10, 11, 12 I mailed to Mr. Vishniakki letters containing Lafayette's entries, among which were those of Rinehart and Walbridge, in the weights, together with a request for a copy of proof for verification, which copy was never received. To-day, on reaching the grounds, I discovered that these two names had been omitted. Mr. Vishniakki refused to insert them, claiming not to have received them. Thereupon the Executive Committee met and declared the whole proceeding irregular in that the entries had not been submitted to them as ordered by the constitution, and ruled that the men be entered. Swarthmore absolutely refused to allow the men to compete, and I withdrew our team. After the team had gone to the depot a delegation of Swarthmore alumni, claiming to act for their college, acknowledged the correctness of the Executive Committee's ruling, apologized for the words of their manager and requested our re-entrance into the games, which I did not feel warranted in doing.
JOHN CLARKE, Captain.

Editorial and News Department.

John Sergeant Price, Esq.

JOHN SERGEANT PRICE was born in Philadelphia, June 10, 1831. His father was Hon. Eli K. Price, for many years a leader of the Philadelphia Bar, to whose efforts in the State Senate the consolidation of the city was largely due. His mother was Miss Anna Embree.

Mr. Price was educated at private schools in Philadelphia and in the Department of Arts of the University of Pennsylvania, the Law Department of which he entered in 1852, graduating in 1854.

While at the law school he also pursued his legal studies in the office of the late Joseph B. Townsend, LL.D., who was associated with Eli K. Price, on whose motion he was admitted to the Bar April 8, 1854. Soon after his graduation, Mr. Price took active steps towards organizing the Society of the Alumni of the Law Department, and for many years prior to his death was president of the society. His interest in the University was not, however, confined to the Law Department alone, but was extended to every line of its work, he having for many years been chairman of the central committee of the alumni.

On June 25, 1856, he married Sarah Anna Baker, daughter of Isaac F. Baker. On his entrance into practice he rose rapidly, and was soon widely known for his learning in the law of real estate and the estates of decedents. Indeed his work was almost entirely confined to these two branches of the law, in which he had few superiors.

During his early years at the Bar he was actively interested in the Law Academy, of which he was successively secretary, vice-president and president. As time went on he identified himself with various public institutions. In 1875 he succeeded his father as treasurer of the American Philosophical Society, which position he filled until his death.

For more than twenty-five years he was secretary of the board of managers of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind.

In 1855 he helped to organize the Land Title and Trust Company, of which he was vice-president.

Next to Hon. Frederick Fraley, he was the oldest surviving director of the Western Saving Fund Society. He was a moving spirit in the Woodlands Cemetery Company, the Continental Hotel Company, the Preston Retreat and the Reliance Insurance Company.

During its early years Mr. Price was a faithful member of the Union League, and was at the same time active in politics. Latterly he was connected with the University Club, the Philadelphia Country Club and many other organizations.

Personally, Mr. Price gave strict attention to his practice, doing everything with his own hands, his client's interests being always his interests. He was at all times cheerful and ready to sacrifice himself for those who sought his advice and assistance.

While having little or no taste for the active contests of his profession at the Bar, he was a safe and reliable counsellor, and, like his honored father, pre-eminently distinguished for absolute truthfulness and inflexible integrity in thought and action.

Quiet though his life was, for he came of Quaker stock, it was, nevertheless, one that made a strong impression on everyone who came within the circle of its influence. Thoughtful and obliging in both professional and private life, he belonged to a class of men whose gradual disappearance in the rush of modern life is a matter of deep concern and regret.

He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. His elder son, Eli Kirk Price, is a member of the Bar. The other son, J. Sergeant Price, Jr., is a student in the Law Department of the University of Pennsylvania. The daughter is the wife of J. Willis Martin, the well known attorney.

JUSTICE SHERMAN PRESIDED.

Delta Upsilon National Convention at the Hotel Aldine.

The Delta Upsilon held a business session yesterday morning at the Aldine Hotel. Dean Penniman, of the College Department of the University of Pennsylvania, delivered an address of welcome, and reports were made by delegates from several chapters. The reports referred to the standing of the fraternity, "socially, intellectually and athletically," and its relations with other fraternities in the various colleges.

At 11.30 the meeting adjourned, to assemble at Broad Street Station, to meet the President of the fraternity, Chief Justice Elijah B. Sherman, of the Supreme Court of Illinois, who has been an enthusiastic worker in the Delta Upsilon since 1860.

At 2 P. M. the convention reassembled, Chief Justice Sherman presiding, and the reports from chapters were resumed. The question of national expansion was discussed and several patriotic speeches were made. The application for a charter by McGill University, Montreal, was granted.

Last night the delegates attended the South Broad Street Theatre as the guests of the Philadelphia Chapter.

Mitchell Palmer spoke, and "Our New South," by John A. Thayer. United States Solicitor General John K. Richards was to have spoken on "Success in Politics," but the word that he was unable to be present.

DELTA U. MEN ORGANIZE.

Alumni of Philadelphia Prepare for the '98 Convention.

Thirty graduates of colleges and universities who in student days were members of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity met at the Hotel Walton last night and organized the Philadelphia Alumni Club.

The membership of the organization will be about one hundred when the roll is completed. The meeting assembled in response to a call sent out by Henry Ashton Little, Penn., '90; F. Mortimer Lawrence, Syracuse, '92; Howard Cooper Johnson, Swarthmore, '93; John C. Hinckley, Penn., '96, and Arba Blodgett of Lafayette. A constitution was adopted and permanent organization effected.

The principal topic for discussion was the national convention of the fraternity which will be held with the Pennsylvania chapter, in October. Plans were laid and committees appointed for the successful conduct of the convention and banquet. It is probable that among the guests of honor on this occasion will be the newly-appointed Comptroller of the Currency, Charles G. Dawes, an alumnus of the Marietta College Chapter, Congressman C. W. Stone, of Williams, an alumnus of the Williams Chapter, and Governor Voorhees, of New Jersey, an alumnus of the Rutgers Chapter.

The officers elected were: President, F. Mortimer Lawrence; vice-president, Fred Baker, Lehigh, '92; secretary and treasurer, John C. Hinckley.

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE GYMNASIUM

GYMNASTIC.

Swarthmore College to Have a Fine New Gymnasium.

The commencement of Swarthmore College next June will be the occasion of the laying of the corner-stone of a new gymnasium for young men, and in anticipation of this event an alumni committee have just issued an appeal to alumni and friends of the college for subscriptions.

The proposed building, which is of the colonial renaissance, will be built of Lelleville granite, with galvanized iron trimmings and slate roof. It will be 54 feet wide and 118 feet in depth, with two stories and a basement, and finished in hard wood. The basement will contain a large swimming pool over 60 feet in length, two bowling alleys, a hot room, needle baths and showers, lockers for undergraduates, with separate apartments for visiting teams. The basement will be lined with buff brick and the baths and pool will be wainscoted with white marble.

Upon the first floor will be a reception room for Swarthmore's well-known Director of Physical Culture, Dr. Shell, and the gymnasium proper, a space 50 by 100 feet, finished in maple and pine and to be equipped with the best appliances yet devised for the muscular development of the college man.

The second floor will contain a trophy hall and two magnificently appointed lounging rooms for the men, each fitted with open fireplaces and a gallery over one end of the gymnasium, the rest being thrown into the gymnasium, affording the best possible facility for light and ventilation.

The building, while simple in plan and therefore economical in construction, is nevertheless quiet and dignified in appearance, and, upon first notice, calls forth favorable comment upon its solid yet elegant style, the front being adorned with four granite columns extending from floor to roof.

The cost will be about $15,000, and the committee who have the matter in charge and to whom any subscriptions may be sent are ex-President William Hyde Appleton, President Charles DeGarmo, William L. Elkins, Jr., Fred C. Hicks, Professor George A. Hoadley, Howard W. Lippincott, Hon. Wm. C. Sprout, Howard Cooper Johnson, Esq., William G. Underwood.

First Line-up at Swarthmore.

[SPECIAL TO THE PUBLIC LEDGER.]

Swarthmore, Sept. 27.—Swarthmore's first line-up of the season, in the game with the alumni to-morrow, will be as follows: Full-back, Captain Farquhar; half-backs, Jackson and Bell; quarter, Seaman; centre, Booth; guards, Downing and McVaugh; tackles, Temple and Thomas; ends, Verlenden and Tyson. Other men will be given a trial during the game.

A feature that will make things decidedly interesting for the regulars is the fact that George Brooke, of Pennsylvania fame, who graduated here in 1893, will play with the alumni. He is just back from campaigning with Battery A, and is in fine physical condition. Coach Williams may also go into the game, while Palmer, Hodge, Fouse, Verlenden, Johnson and other well known ex-Swarthmore players will participate.

SWARTHMORE'S FIRST GAME

The College Defeats an Alumni Eleven by a Close Score.

Special Telegram to THE TIMES.

Swarthmore, September 28.—The opening game of the season took place here this afternoon between the Alumni and College, the latter winning by the score of 6 to 0. This game always creates a great deal of interest, the alumni turning out in force, and to-day's game was no exception. The Alumni, with such men as George Brooke, the famous Pennsylvania full-back; Hodge, Palmer, Mears, Fouse and Freeman, all old Swarthmore stars, put up a game that made the College men work their hardest to beat.

The first half was evenly contested, with honors slightly in favor of the College team, both teams almost scoring. The College team braced up in the second half and played a much snappier game, scoring their first and only touch-down after ten minutes' play. Captain Farquhar, Temple, Booth and Seaman put up the best game for the College, while Palmer, Hodge and Mears excelled for Alumni. Brooke retired in the second half owing to a sprained ankle. The line-up was as follows:

of the Fraternity.

A SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION.

Proceedings Marked by an Expansive
Policy—Prominent Men Deliver
Addresses at Closing Banquet.
Literary Exercises.

The Delta Upsilon Fraternity held the final sessions of its convention yesterday, closing what has been the most successful meeting held by this fraternity in years. The proceedings of the convention have been marked by an expansive policy. Two new charters were granted by the convention, the charter to McGill University, Montreal, symbolic of the closer growing sympathies of the English-speaking race, and the charter to the University of Nebraska, an evidence of the far-reaching influence of the fraternity.

Judge Sherman, president of the fraternity, called the meeting to order in the forenoon. The first question to come up was the granting of a charter to the T. D. O. local fraternity of the University of Nebraska. After considerable discussion a charter was voted unanimously for this institution. P. H. Thompson was present from Nebraska to urge

William L. Jenks, Michigan; second vice-president, Arthur H. Jameson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; third vice-president, Harold Corbusier, Michigan; treasurer, Nelson W.
