Dear Susan -

I meant to write to you long ago as you said you were anxious to hear from all of us before College opened. I think your plan excellent but I thought it was exactly what we decided upon last Spring. The only difference seems to be that the President of the Undergraduates, instead of Deane, should speak to the Freshmen. I think it would be rather more impressive to have the Deane do it but I do not see the slightest objection to having the President. As to a system of monitors you shall think, do you not, that it would be better to try first without them? Perhaps I did not understand any points of difference that you may have made. It is

you will explain them, will you not, when Colley opens? I hope you will pardon this hideous office paper but I have not a particle of note-paper left - Wishing you all success in your undertaking believe me

Very sincerely yours
Charlotte West
